NORTHERN CALIFORNIA SUPPLIER DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL GRANTS SIX DIMENSIONS MINORITY BUSINESS STATUS

San Ramon, California -- September 2, 2008 -- Six Dimensions, a privately held, San Ramon, California-based provider of expert consulting services, announced today that it has been granted status as a Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) by the Northern California Supplier Development Council (NCSDC).

The NCSDC certifies for profit businesses located in Northern California and Hawaii that are 51% or more ethnic minority-owned, operated and controlled by United States citizens. The NCSDC is a regional affiliate of the National Minority Supplier Development Council (NMSDC), a network of 39 Councils linking more than 3,600 corporations and 16,500 minority-owned businesses across the country. On a regional and national scale, the organization works to promote diversity and increase business opportunities for minority-owned businesses.

“We’re thrilled to be associated with the Northern California Supplier Development Council and its growing network of minority owned businesses,” said Tejune Kang, founder and president of Six Dimensions. “Through our membership in the NCSDC, Six Dimensions will develop mutually beneficial business relationships with other member companies both here in California and across the organizations national network. As an MBE, we’ll continue to grow our business and offer other companies the best consultant resources to keep pace with changes in technology,” said Kang.

The National Minority Supplier Development Council is a true wealth creation opportunity. As a regional affiliate of one of the largest private sector organizations, the NCSDC facilitates interaction between its Fortune 1000 members and entrepreneurs. Within the NCSDC’s membership, 13% have annual revenues in excess of 10 million dollars. The NCSDC encourages companies to engage with corporate members and certified suppliers as soon as they are granted status as a MBE. The NCSDC holds events throughout the year, including seminars and workshops, for members to network and build relationships.

“Six Dimensions has a great deal of upside potential,” said Michael Ruiz, president of the Northern California Supplier Development Council. “Tejune Kang embodies the entrepreneurial spirit that is necessary to guide and support a long term sustainable business. His passion for his business will be obvious to other members of the NCSDC and he’ll be able to build relationships within the association that will be an economic benefit to Six Dimensions, which is the true value of the organization,” said Ruiz.

Six Dimensions helps organizations strengthen their current staff and secure the greatest value from their technology investments. The company provides a full range of staffing solutions ranging from individual placement of expert consultants for contingent to direct hire positions to on-demand implementation and management consulting services and ERP professional services.

In addition to being certified as a minority owned enterprise with the NCSDC, Six Dimensions has registered with the Central Contractor Registration (CCR) and the Department of General Services (DGS). Six Dimensions is actively pursuing additional certifications in order to make it easier for companies to do business with them.
